In the Options-menu you can control the translation output format and the license code. Enter the menu by clicking the “Options...”-button in the left side navigation.

a. Choosing the language of the application

Multilizer PDF Translator can be used with several application languages. Use this option to change the language of the software. This selection doesn't affect the languages of the actual translation process.

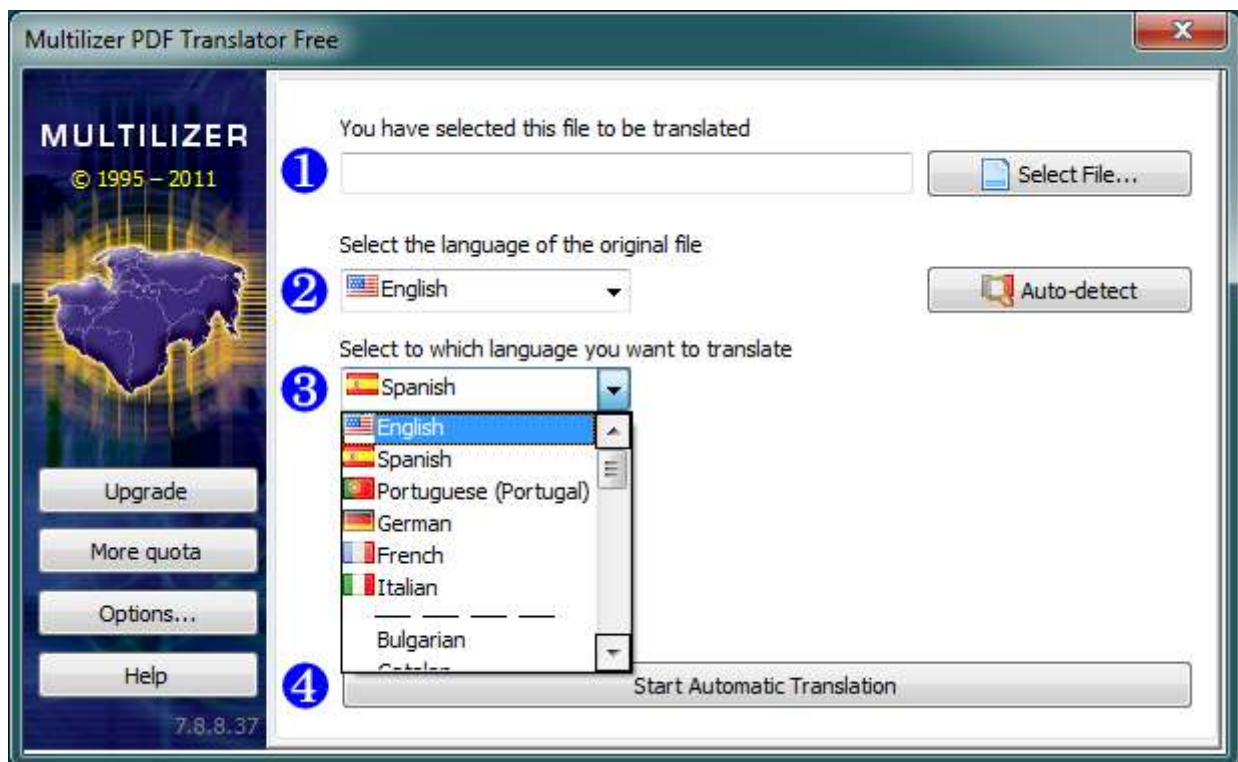

b. Changing the license code

If you buy a Standard or Pro license in the web store, you will receive a new license code. To activate the new version, replace the old license code with the new license code in the Options-menu. The new version will be activated automatically after restarting the program.

2. Translating a PDF Document

Mutilizer PDF Translator is extremely easy to use. The translation process is designed to be as smooth as possible for the user. When you want to translate a PDF, just follow these few steps:

- First, choose the document you want to translate. You can do this by clicking “Select File...” – button. (1)
- Then, select the source language (2) and the target language (3) from the language list.
- Finally, start the translation by clicking “Start Automatic Translation”.

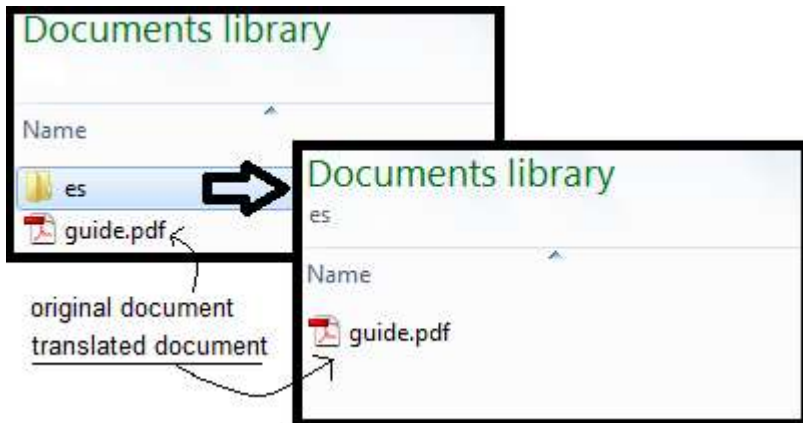

After this is done, Mutilizer PDF Translator will start translating the file.

When the translation is ready, you can open the translated file or the folder where the file is saved. You can also translate more now.

Mutilizer always saves the translation to the same folder where the original file is. There Mutilizer creates a new folder for the translation named with the language id (“en” for English, “es” for Spanish etc.)
